Entré Technology is the most comprehensive provider of Results Reporting and Connectivity Products in the Clinical Lab Market — Bar None.

Understanding Your Needs

If you are like most labs your results reporting and connectivity network represents a substantial capital investment as well as significant monthly operational expenses. It is also one of the top three reasons your clients do business with you.

Every dollar you spend is multiplied by the number of clients you serve. Conversely, every dollar you save falls straight to the bottom line.

That's where Entré can help. We offer the widest range of remote printing products to fit any budget. We also leverage our tremendous buying power to provide you the best possible pricing on your consumables ranging from ribbons to toner.

Let Us Prove Our Quality and Savings

Give us a list of what you buy every month and let us prove the savings we can generate for your company. We'll match the items feature-for-feature and provide you with evaluation units so you can verify our quality first hand.

Our Pledge to You

EntreTechnology will be your sound business partner, drawing upon our vast resources to provide technological advantages to your organization.

You have the right to demand a technology partner that is an integral part of your business. One that understands your challenges and will respond to your needs during critical times as well as day-to-day operations.

Product Highlights

- Second Generation: Believe it or not, some labs still buy the traditional dot-matrix remote printer... and we still manufacture them.
- Third Generation: We have a full line of laser/LED remote printers as well as printer independent devices that support fax receive and form overlay.
- Fourth Generation: Our Fourth Generation of products support sftp and https report pull for Internet-based reporting. They are also backwards compatible with Third and Second generation technology so they can be mix and matched throughout your network without concern for compatibility issues.
- Next Generation: What will the future hold? You tell us. We're constantly working with our customers to develop products that decrease your costs, increase your reliability and improve your competitive advantage. Results Delivery is a critical part of your business, and it's one we take very seriously.
